Pathways to Employment

Just last year, 900 people were released from Hamilton County corrections. Approximately 70 million people have a criminal record (one-third of working age U.S. adults). When released, they're expected to find work and support themselves and their families. Fortunately, there is a shift in Hamilton County, working on initiatives to promote second-chance employment.

Helping People Recover.

Mayor Aftab Pureval visited the Addiction Services Council May 9, 2022 to honor the prevention services provided by the AIM Team and by all of the area treatment agencies. The mayor proclaimed May 9th "Cincinnati Prevention Day."

Issuing a proclamation designating the second week in May as National Prevention Week can help draw attention to prevention issues and the events and activities held in your region in honor of this health observance.
