Redefining Justice

On any given night in America, nearly half a million people sit in jail before trial, mainly because they can't afford bail. But what if there was a way that individuals could get bail assistance at no financial risk to themselves or their loved ones? The Bail Project is doing just that. Read about how the Bail Project is disrupting the cash bail system in our community!

"When I was arrested, I was scared. I didn't want to be the guy who didn't return home after my arrest."

22-year old Isaiah worried about serving his time with no sure release date. With $10K between him and freedom, Isaiah spent every night for a month unsure if he would ever return to his mom or sisters. We paid Isaiah's bail so he could go home and feel safe again. Now he's back at work with 2 new jobs, and starting school

SUCCESS

The success story coming from Potter House Recovery has been given to Harold Moller. A real journey of recovery, this individual was our first resident, first in house manager, first graduate, and now is the president that sits on the non-profit board. He has broken the stigma of addiction by his powerful drive to change. He started to believe in himself on a deep level, and began learning how to live without the use of drugs. Looking at himself in the mirror, and learning to love himself was a personal life lesson he had to experience.

“A real journey of recovery, this individual was our first resident, first in house manager, first graduate, and now is the president that sits on the non-profit board.”

Harold has started a recovery meeting with another recovering addict in the community that still goes on today, which gives people a safe place to attend to treat their illness. He has been a role model to the community, and an outstanding father to his kids, which he cherishes very deeply. Recently he took a leap of faith and started his own company with a friend called B&M painting and handyman services. With the life skills he was taught while living clean, his company has taken off. It's an honor to choose such a success story like this one!
